Overview

Where it all began

The Wow Company started BenchPress in 2012, initially benchmarking agencies in the UK. They have grown that survey to be the largest of its kind for independent agency owners in the UK. The Wow Company worked with The Consultancy Growth Network to produce the first Consultancy BenchPress in 2020.

Your data

By taking part, you agree that The Consultancy Growth Network and/or The Wow Company will have access to your responses and can email you to share the results, trends, and insights derived from the survey. If you at any point don't wish to be contacted, you can unsubscribe at any time.

The more questions you complete, the more benchmarks you'll get out of it. However, if there's something you don't want to share with us, please skip the question. To publish the report, we consolidate the data and process it to put together the benchmarks and insights. Your individual answers are never shared outside of the organisations specifically mentioned above.
